Navigating Policy Uncertainty around Federal Funding

A Discussion with Senator Mark Warner

Invitation to join Webex call on February 4 at 11:00 AM

Since the new administration assumed office nearly two weeks ago, there have been a wave of executive orders that have created uncertainty around whether certain federal funding programs will continue to exist and disperse funds. Localities across Virginia have budgets that depend on these funds for operations and this uncertainty creates operational challenges for local government.

Senator Mark Warner will join us on the morning of Tuesday, February 4 at 11:00 AM to share the latest from Washington on the status of federal funding. He will discuss the executive orders currently in effect and how he expects them to affect our communities. Additionally, he is interested in hearing from our membership about which federal funding programs are most essential for local government operations.
